

The Importance Of Safeguarding

What is Safeguarding?

Safeguarding is the action that is taken to promote the welfare of children and protect them from harm.

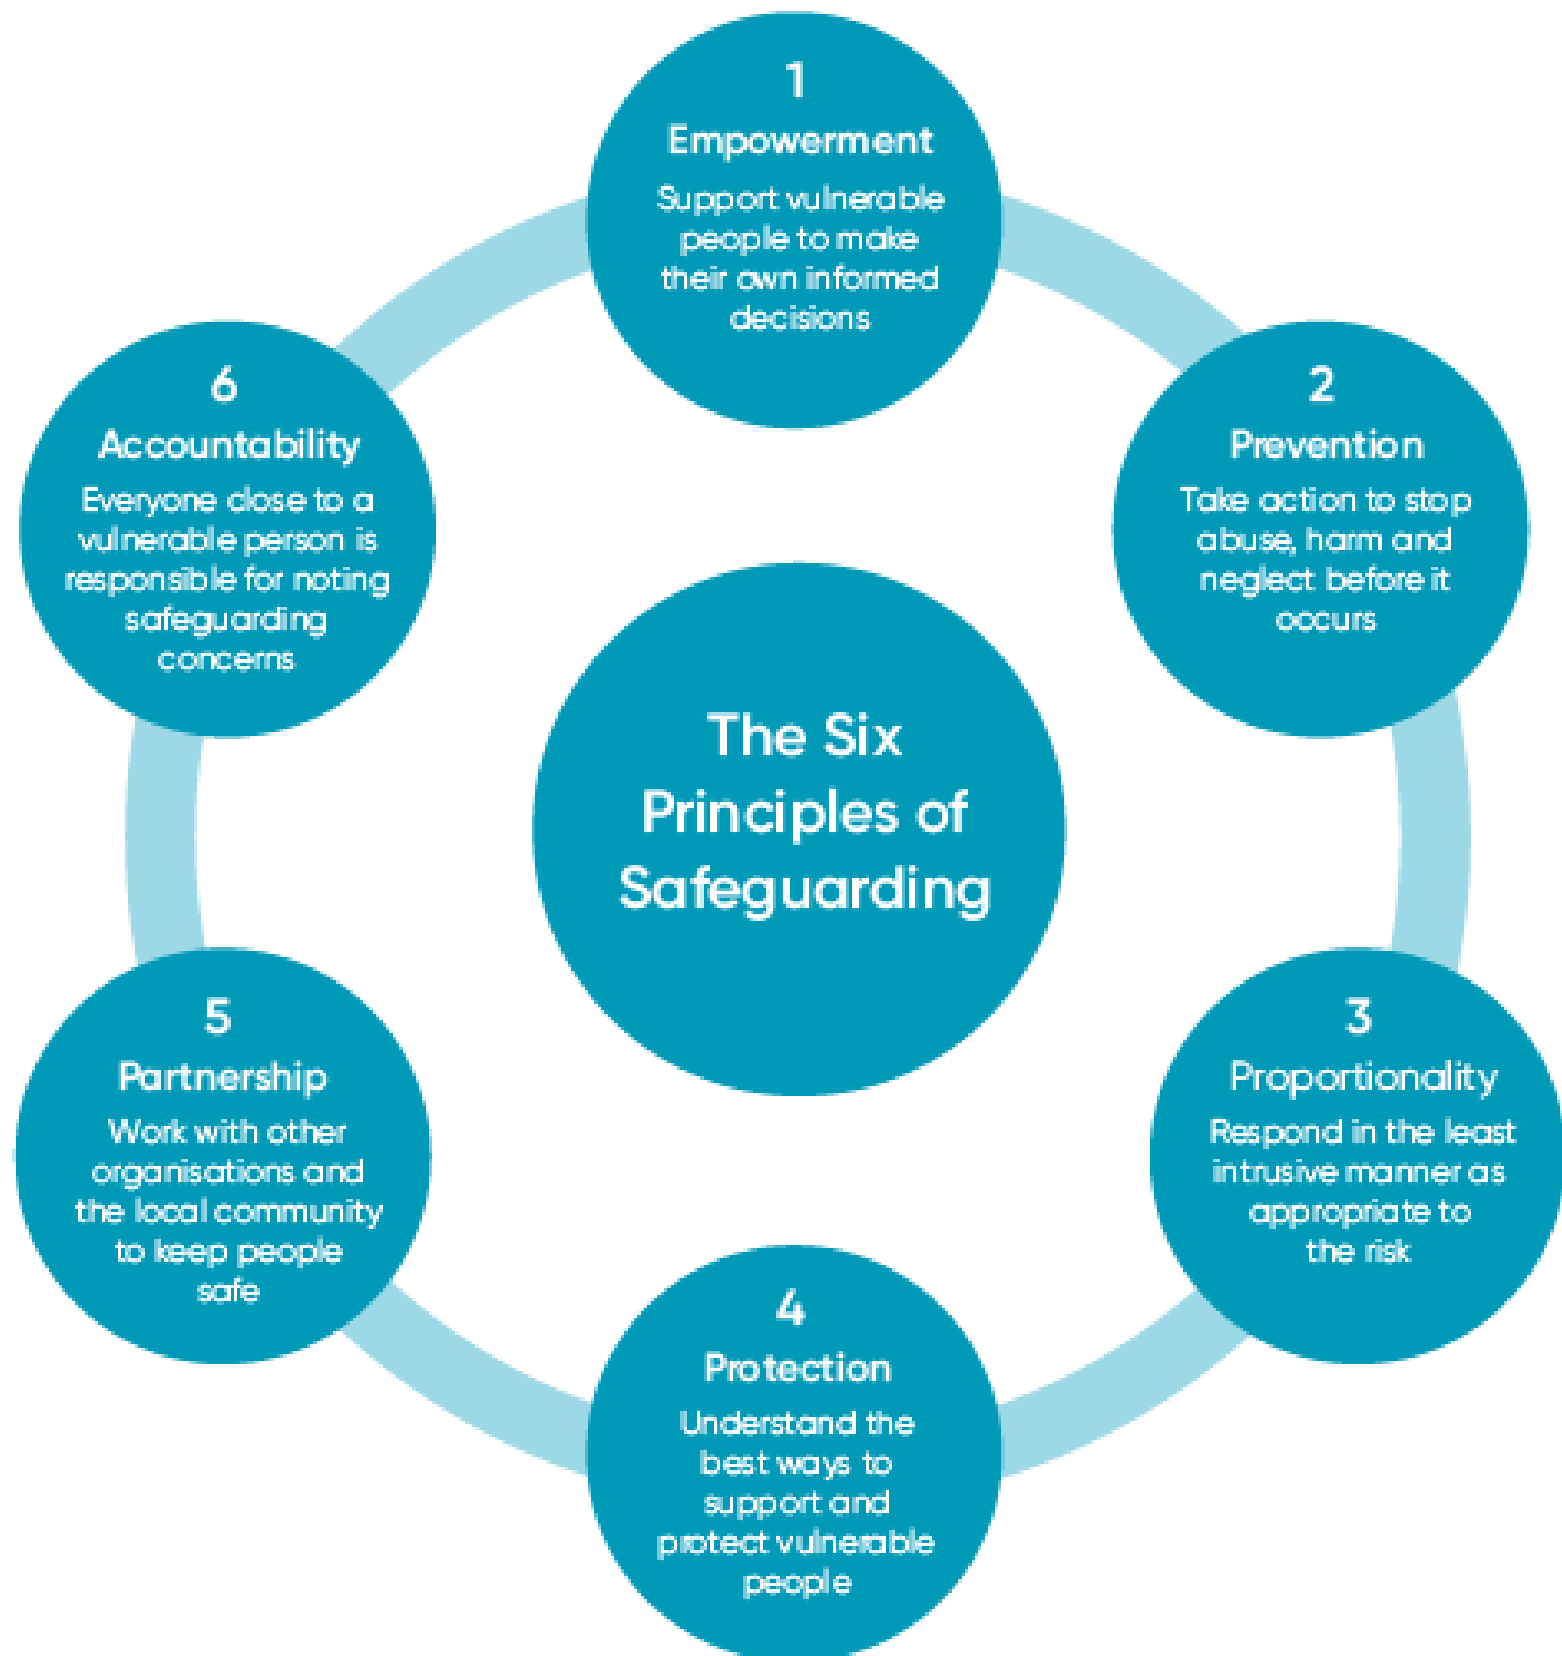

Safeguarding means: protecting children from abuse and maltreatment. preventing harm to children's health or development.

What are the 6 principles of safeguarding?

Preventing harm from occurring as soon as possible. Responding to risks in an appropriate, ideally intrusive manner. Ensuring everyone has the knowledge and training required to protect people from abuse. Partnering with other organisations and communities to support vulnerable people.

6 Principles Of Safeguarding

Safeguarding in schools is essential for keeping children safe. It means having: whole-school policies and procedures. Staff and volunteers confident in identifying and raising concerns.

Safeguarding In Schools - Lanyards

Lanyards are a very effective way of improving safety and security in schools and other educational settings. Wearing ID badges is an important element of safeguarding in schools, to help to prevent unauthorised personnel from entering school property, while a distinctive lanyard in the same colours and displaying a school logo, also identify staff.

Wearing a lanyard not only demonstrates Safeguarding, it also displays a university's, school's, or college brand and logo which is a good way of raising the profile of the university, school or college to attract more people to apply to study there.

Professional looking lanyards give a good impression of the university, school or college and students wearing one will know that they are representing their university, school or college when they are outside of the premises.

Safeguarding In Health Care

NHS definition of Safeguarding:

Safeguarding means protecting a citizen's health, wellbeing and human rights; enabling them to live free from harm, abuse and neglect. It is an integral part of providing high-quality health care.

Safeguarding has always been entrenched in healthcare practices and has now long been part of the mandatory training programme for anyone working in health, social care, education and other sectors with possible contact with vulnerable persons

Click the image below to read about the importance of Safeguarding within the health care industry

